Having set aside the stone with the recording of Reszurre's song for when the wandering merchant stops by again, we continued doing exercises for her left leg so that she could travel someday.
We'll just do the usual today.
Y-Yes, please.
Sorry for taking up so much of your time every evening...
Hm? No, it's okay!
rub rub
Compared to what I had to do in the past... Err... Never mind, forget it...
Her left leg had been steadily recovering, and although it wasn't at the point of her right arm yet, she should be able to move it freely soon. I was thinking she would need a crutch to walk, but that line of thought got interrupted by a suggestion from Reszurre herself.
knead...
knead...
